

The Trouble at Mobile.—Further Particulars.

We have already given some particulars of the excitement at Mobile, growing out of the discovery that Messrs. Strickland & Upson, book sellers there, had been circulating incendiary documents.—A letter from that city to the New York Herald, dated the 16th inst., says:

"A son of Dr. Woodcock called at the store of William Strickland and Edwin Upson—men of Strickland & Co.—on Wednesday, and after considerable searching found the 'Life and Writings of Freder Douglass,' for which Mr. Upson charged the exorbitant price $2.50, which Mr. Woodcock promptly paid. A Committee of Vigilance, consisting of twenty-five of our leading men, soon met at the Battle House, sent for Messrs. Strickland and Upson, and after giving them a fair hearing required them to give bonds in the sum of $5,000 each for their appearance before the committee the next day, for further examination. Meantime an examination of their stock and account books proved the statements of Strickland and Upson to have been utterly false. Instead of these two or three copies having accidentally got into their store with a lot of second hand books, as stated by them, their gross letter book contained an order, in Mr. Strickland's handwriting, for fifty copies of said work. On Thursday the accused appeared before the committee, and were ordered to settle up and leave town within five days, after which time the committee would not be answerable for their lives. The penalty of the law here, in such case provided, is 'death' or not less than ten years' imprisonment in the penitentiary."

Thursday night a party started for the residence of Mr. Strickland, armed and equipped for a "tight rope performance," but by the prompt interposition of the more moderate portion of the Vigilance men the "performance" was postponed. Mr. Upson has not been seen since Thursday. Mr. Strickland was in his store yesterday, and passed through our streets unmolested. Though the proofs of his guilt were not then known, two of his friends, meeting him, accosted him in this wise: 'Strickland, if I believed what is reported of you to be true, I would hang you as high as Haman.' 'Yes said the other, 'if half of it was true, I would help to lynch you on the spot.' Sentiments like these are in every mouth, and great dissatisfaction is felt among many of the lenient course of their committee. Strickland has not been in the city to-day, and it has been ascertained that he left town in a sail boat yesterday evening, soon after the warning he received from his friends. It is supposed he has gone North by the underground route.

Greatly Encouraged.

The Chicago correspondent of the New York Tribune thus writes in his last letter: We are greatly encouraged, and our opponents are correspondingly depressed, by one feature of the election news from Iowa and Missouri. The German vote, instead of going for Slave Democracy en masse, as they confidently expected, has in large part been given for Freedom's candidates. The more name Democracy has lost its power over intelligent and thinking men. We expect to gain largely and steadily of this German vote until November.

We have all along been of the opinion that the dependence of Mr. Buchanan upon the German vote of the North and West as the Democratic party has hitherto depended, would prove a broken reed, and the result, we have no doubt, will fully bear out the correctness of that opinion. The importance of this vote in some of the Northwestern States is such that it will be impossible for Buchanan to carry them without it. Thus, day by day, is his chance of success diminishing.

A STRANGE ANIMAL.—The present canvass for the Presidential office has revealed a new order of animals that we do to recollect to have seen described in history, tale, or song—a sort of

"Lawless, fierce, voracious, biter—

Half his side half a snarl."

A creature of amorphous nature,

A beast on land, a fish in water."

The vermin to which we allude is called an "Old Lime Henry Clay Buchanan Whig!" and we venture to say that no such creature was ever before heard of in this or any other country. Alluding to the biped a few days ago, we understand a friend of ours, at Cedar Hill, in Anson county, remarked that he had heard of many strange animals, such as the Wolly Horse, the Canzario, the Gygantes, and the Great Boa Dog that it took two ships to bring from the Foeoe Islands, but never had the world before produced such a zoological wonder as the "Old Lime Henry Clay Buchanan Whig."

The nearest approximation to the new order that we recollect to have heard anything about, is presented in the person of one Caleb Cushing, now Attorney General of the United States, and an influential member of the Pierce Cabinet. He is described by one who knows him well as double-minded (hermaphrodite) in politics, with a hinge in the knee that bends both right and left, and is likely to follow farming—[Fay. Argus.]

BECOMING ALARMED.—The opponents of Mr. Fillmore, finding that adjectives will no longer answer the purpose, that gross and indecent abuse is likely to defeat its object that an affected ignorance of his candidacy, which they at first attempted, will no longer do, are now trying to appeal to the generosity of his friends to come to their rescue! Laughable, isn't it? The New York Courier and Enquirer, formerly a Whig paper of character and influence, earnestly beseeches the honest and misguided men who have been seduced into the support of Mr. Fillmore to come over and support Mr. Fremont! Perhaps they'll do it, and perhaps they won't—We are slightly inclined to the latter opinion. The Courier proceeds through a column and a half in this persuasive, beseeching tone. Vain effort! You might as well place yourself at the foot of Niagara and implore it to "stop that noise."

The Boston Traveler, neutral half a column of short notices of Fillmore meetings and the formation of Fillmore clubs in Massachusetts. Mr. Chouteau's letter seems to have fallen still-born. The fact is the people are not in leading strings and never were. They do their own thinking, a fact which the followers of a certain party have never attempted.

THREE FALSEHOODS EXPOSED.—No. 1

That Gen. Leslie Coombs supports Buchanan. Gen. Coombs, over signature, declares himself in favor of Fillmore.

No. 2. That both the sons of Henry Clay are Buchanan men. Thomas H. Clay is not only a staunch Fillmore man, but is President of the American State Council of Kentucky.

No. 3. That J. Scott Harrison, son of the ex-President, is a supporter of Buchanan. He goes for Fillmore with zeal and ardor.

We could give other prominent illustrations of the game sought to be played by our opponents, but the foregoing will suffice for all practical purposes.—N. O. Picayune.

ONE OF THE PLANKS.—The Cincinnati platform is a remarkable structure, but it is that which the people are to vote for against in the contest. Here is one of the plank:

Resolved. That the Administration of FRANKLIN PIERCE has been true to Democratic principles, and therefore true to the great interest of the country; in the face of violent opposition he has maintained the laws at home, and therefore we proclaim OUR UNQUALIFIED ADMIRATION OF HIS MEASURES AND POLICY.

Resolved. That the Administration of N. W. Lawrence Johnson, Clark, Holly Springs, Aug. 26, 1856.—4-36-1w
